

TENNESSEE
COMPTROLLER
OF THE TREASURY

Rachel Buckley
Assistant Open Records Counsel

Rachel Buckley is the Assistant Open Records Counsel in the Tennessee Comptroller's Office of Open Records Counsel. Rachel provides guidance and advice to Tennessee citizens, media, and governmental entities on issues related to Tennessee's open meetings and open records laws. She also promotes awareness of those laws by participating in educational outreach events across the state.

Rachel joined the Comptroller's Office after serving as an Assistant Attorney General in the Tennessee Attorney General's Office, and an Assistant General Counsel in the Tennessee Department of Children's Services. She also spent a year working as a deputy clerk in the McMinn County Circuit Court Clerk's Office.

Rachel is a graduate of Saint Louis University where she holds a Bachelor of Arts in Spanish and Theology. She received her law degree from the University of Tennessee College of Law.

In her spare time, Rachel enjoys exploring Nashville and cheering on the Predators and Tennessee Vols. She frequently returns home to East Tennessee to visit friends and family.
